

93. Thanksgiving Letter Writing Frustrations (1:13)

In the 88th letter you write your frustrations which include inability to locate people, inability to convince some to stay in contact

You're taking these on as your responsibilities. Yeah. And a limited time and space to write each year. You limit yourself to 20 to 30 minutes for each 65er.

Yes and I had to do that because when you have a group as close as this group was to Carol and me, I could sit and write probably 10 hours to every person. I'd never get done. I had to do it by a certain limit so not to create any problem or short change anybody.

I just had to cut it down to about a half an hour even then you got to realize that a half an hour for each one there's 120 or 114 - that's 60 hours right there you see.

And that's the actual writing part. Add research to that.

Related Primary Leadership Principles

Accountability

Capacity to Care

Communications

Discipline

Drive to Achieve

Information

Military Core Values

Political Savvy

Responsibility

Stress